Shamans Altar

The mesa is your altar, a reflection of your inner power, your personal universe. It is a living embodiment and mirror of your shaman life journey on the medicine path. Through your Medicine Wheel training, the mesa organized itself as it should, without the push of power in it, but a shaman who learned to walk with power and healing can work through the mesa to create change in her own world as well as in the bigger dream outside the personal.

What happens if the mesa goes asleep and have lost its power? What happens in your life if the mesa is weak and leaks energy? How can you create new actions of healing and visions in it through ceremony?

This class takes you on an exciting archetypical journey with your altar of medicine stones and shows different maps and ways to consciously work in your mesa to create change.

Welcome to this creative and very joyful class to deepen your relationship with yourself, your medicine stones and with you as part of the Inka lineage of medicine people.

Luminous Warrior

Walking in the world as a luminous warrior is about living in freedom, about making the dark conscious so that you can free the light that is being held in the unconscious. We are all both light and dark, but if we neglect our dark side, push it down or simply pretend that it does not exist, it becomes shadow within us and we are hopelessly stuck in negative projections upon life. We get stuck in limitations and behaviors that block our inner light to powerfully shine.

This class is a deep dive into Jaguar medicine that is all about having power in the present, about living in balance without the need of creating conflicts or enemies. You work with your inner warrior and practice a lot of different tracking skills to see through illusions of separation and fear. You work with mirrors in your outer world where you get stuck in weakness, you learn how to solve conflicts through ceremonies and rituals instead of being caught in drama, you get knowledge of how the shadows work and how you create protection in yourself, in your home or at your place of work. This class holds so much luminous teachings! What you practice here becomes a valuable life skill that contributes to a much more conscious, peaceful and bright world.

Living Destiny

According to Inka mythology we are born with 2 books, one silver and one golden. The silver is the book of karma already written in the stars, a book you work and heal through the journey of the Medicine Wheel. The golden book is of Destiny, a book you are here to write yourself along the river of life. Destiny never comes knocking on your door asking you to follow it, you have to courageously choose it and meet it in the moment. This is what this class prepares you for, answering the call of your soul and step up to live in yes!

You learn how to track along your timelines into the future and download new potential in the now. The work is sweet like the golden nectar of its power animal hummingbird. The class also includes ceremonies and wisdom around archetypal patterns in how you get out of the shadow sides that block your life energy. We sit by three altars with the gatekeepers of the three worlds to deepen spiritual connection, receiving gifts and strengthen our relationship to them. The class teaches and offer you two high initiations in Andean shamanism to boost the journey with Destiny that calls you. For most students this class is the most magical, as the teachings keep weaving magic into your life!

The Dreamer

To be a powerful seer we need to be fully present in the moment, awake, clear and able to step out the collective momentum of the world. It is important that we not only continue to explore and change how we see limiting stories but we must take the next step and put our intent and visioning into “seeing” what we want for ourselves and the world.

Those are the skills you practice in this visionary class. It is about flying on the winds of the East and work in the upper world of dreams and infinite possibilities.

You will learn to work with your intention as a source and navigate the energetic sphere of your dreams through the mythical dimension of life, a journey that begins with the Magician, through the High priestess and the Empress to lastly take form with the Emperor. You practice symbolic vision and harmonize language as a creative principle to move powerfully from vision to manifestation. The journey with the condor is about seeing with the heart and being in the loving presence of power and light.

Welcome to a great flying adventure in the sacred!
